Applications are invited for the position of
NCCA Finance Director
$105,000 (inclusive Super)

The National Council of Churches in Australia (NCCA) is seeking a Finance Director to have senior responsibility for the business functions of the organisation. The Council is an expression by 19 national Christian Churches of their commitment to closer co-operation and unity.

Based in the Sydney CBD, the position heads up a dedicated section of 5 staff people and supports national work being done in Indigenous Reconciliation, International Development, and a broad range of issues in contemporary Australian society.

We are looking for someone with a will to make a difference. You will be qualified in accounting and have management experience. You will possess a demonstrated leadership capacity, good people management skills and willingness to work as part of a team. You will be a clear communicator with good presentation skills. The successful candidate will play a key role in providing financial and business support to the NCCA whilst working nationally with a range of Australian Christian communities.

Further information can be obtained from the NCCA office phone (02) 9299-2215
