

FIFTH INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON

Transforming Ecumenism – “listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches” (Rev 2:7)

The Fifth International Conference on Receptive Ecumenism will continue exploring the ecclesiological reparative, critical constructive task of ecumenical ecclesiology that was introduced in the previous conferences (England 2006 and 2009, USA 2014 and Australia 2017). Receptive Ecumenism is a fresh ecumenical methodology emphasizing receptivity, learning, and listening. Since its inception, the concept has taken root in many diverse contexts around the globe.

At this conference, we hope to take this process a step further as we will reflect on the transformative impact of Receptive Ecumenism as an instrument for ecclesial transformation. To what extent are the churches willing to “listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches” (Rev 2:7)? As in the previous conferences, we will have the opportunity to listen to our keynote speakers in plenaries as well as to paper presentations in a number of parallel sessions.

Invited speakers:

Anders Arborelius • Sofia Camnerin • Mathew Chandrankunnel • Susan Durber • Bertil Ekström • Sven-Erik Fjellström • Sara Gehlin • Geraldine Hawkes • Minna Hietamäki • Cyril Hovorun • Karin Johannesson • Cheryl B. Johns • Risto Jukko • Paul D. Murray • Ivana Noble • Katerina • Pekridou • Antonia Pizzey • Peniel Rajkumar • Gregory Ryan • Risto Saarinen • Chediel Sendoro • Johannes Zeiler

Registration for the conference is open from 6 December 2021 to 13 May 2022.

For more information about the registration: <https://ehs.se/receptive-ecumenism-conference/registration/>

The homepage of the conference: <https://ehs.se/receptive-ecumenism-conference/>

For further information: info.re5@ehs.se

University College Stockholm
Stockholm School of Theology

Local conference hosts: Christian Council of Sweden, the Sigtuna Foundation and the University College Stockholm