

2021 National Social Cohesion and Inclusion Conference

This past year the global health crisis has affected us all and caused many to reflect on our way of life. We have grown increasingly conscious of how interconnected we are.

The conference will explore the settings, approaches, methods and experiences that will guide our country to forge a socially cohesive and inclusive nation into the future.

Keynote Speaker:

Pastor Ray Minniecon - St. John's Anglican Church & CEO, Bunji Consultancies

Speakers & Panelists:

Penny Taylor - Race Relations Researcher, UTAS

Maria Koleth & Rosalie Atie - Australian Human Rights Commission, Race Discrimination Team

Joseph La Posta - CEO, Multicultural NSW

Ryan Epondulan - Youth PoWR, Columban Centre for Christian-Muslim Relations

Mateen Navidi & Jamalieh Maaelopa - Fred Murray Community Centre

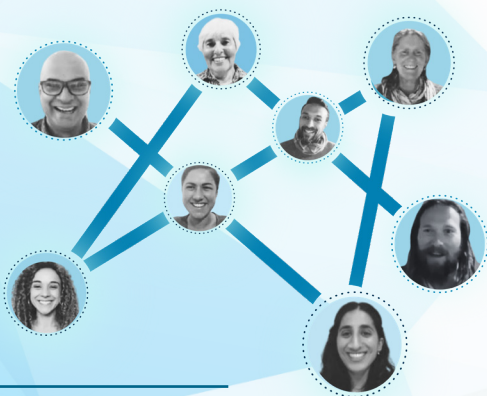

How does this heightened sense of interconnectedness find expression in our efforts to be a more inclusive and socially cohesive society?

How do we move from an acceptance of diversity towards harmonisation?

How do we invite the participation of growing numbers in a collective conversation?
