

In-person event

Nicaea, Then and Now. History, Theology and Ecumenical Significance

A conference hosted by Notre Dame Australia's School of Philosophy and Theology in collaboration with the Catholic Institute of Sydney.

Thursday 15 May 2025, 9.00 am start

Registration is essential. Attendance is free.

All are welcome, including undergraduates, HDR students, faculty and members of the wider community.

The first Christian ecumenical council, held at Nicaea in AD 325, was a watershed in the history of the Church, defining the belief of Jesus Christ as "one essence" with God the Father.

On the occasion of its 1700th anniversary, eight speakers from different scholarly backgrounds and churches will speak about various aspects of the council: its complicated and fascinating history, contributions to theology and its legacy to this day.

Location

School of Philosophy and Theology
The University of Notre Dame Australia
Moorgate Boardroom, 10 Grafton St, Chippendale

For inquiries, please contact:
mario.baghos@nd.edu.au

REGISTER HERE
philosophytheology@nd.edu.au

Peter John McGregor
Catholic Institute of Sydney

Antonios Kaldas
St Cyril's Coptic Orthodox
Theological College

Mariusz Biliniewicz
The University of Notre Dame Australia

Mario Baghos
The University of Notre
Dame Australia

Carole M. Cusack
The University of Sydney

Robert Andrews
Catholic Institute of Sydney

Vassilis Adrahtas
Western Sydney University

Bernard Doherty
Charles Sturt University